What makes our attendees YOUR most qualified customers?

30% Increase in Attendance 2014!

Based on previous registration growth, we expect over 800 people will attend 2014 NoSQL Now!

Who Will Attend?

- 88% of attendees at NoSQL Now! have direct involvement in technology acquisition decisions (identifying, evaluating and/or recommending solutions). 18% have direct budget approval and buying authority.
- 55% of conference attendees from outside of Silicon Valley. Strong presence from Financial, Telecom, Media, Healthcare, Energy, Insurance and Retail sectors.
- 44% of conference attendees have IT budgets over $10 million.

Is the Audience Well-Qualified?

The majority of conference attendees have paid over $1,200 to attend the conference, plus travel and living expenses. They're serious about acquiring advanced technology to solve their business needs. They are hungry for information and education about products, services and available solutions, with a short-term purchasing horizon.

How are We Marketing the Event?

We are promoting the 2014 conference with:

- Extensive email campaigns. In-house lists >110K names focused on both enterprise and web data markets.
- Marketing partnerships give us access to additional external lists >250K names, which have been very effective in the past.
- Extensive social media campaigns
- Promotional programs reaching specialized tech communities face-to-face, such as Local Meet-ups and User Groups.
- Strong relationships with major data and IT publications
- Partnerships with sponsors
- Partnerships with industry associations

Sponsored Speaking Opportunities

Exhibitors may pay a sponsorship fee for the privilege of speaking as part of the conference agenda. These presentations provide excellent value in terms of representation, time and publicity.

Product/Company Focus

- 30 or 45-minute presentation as part of the conference agenda.
- No restriction on the commercial content you may present.
- We do recommend considering the audience needs and interests when you prepare your presentation.
- A pure sales pitch is less likely to be well received, whereas balanced educational and informational content will attract an interested audience.
- Bring a customer case study, or even better the customer themselves as part of the discussion.

Lightning Talks

- 5-minute Sponsor presentation with a 10-slide maximum.
- The conference agenda combines numerous lightning talks into one common subject during a 30 or 45 minute time-slot.

User Group Meetings

- Several Sponsors host user group meetings for their customers and prospects either before, during or after the conference.

Reviewed Presentations

- In addition to sponsored (paid) presentations, sponsors are also invited to submit non-commercial presentation proposals for the educational agenda.
- The proposals are reviewed by the Program Advisory Committee (PAC) for information relevancy and suitability to NoSQL Now! educational purposes.
- Reviews are conducted separately from sponsorship sales; so there is no favoritism in terms of getting onto the educational agenda.

Are there Dedicated Exhibit Hours?

- Yes, our model includes a portion of dedicated exhibit hours during which no other conference activity distracts the audience.
- We encourage attendance at on the exhibition floor by hosting various catered functions. For example, we offer coffee breaks, ice cream breaks, and a full reception on the first evening of the event.

NoSQL Now! Conference is designed to accommodate all levels of technical understanding, from novice through expert, with an emphasis on the design and management needs of enterprise IT and big data applications. Here's a sample of decision makers who have attended:
